

Parents

We value your partnership with us as we seek to teach your children. Internet filtering has been and remains a key component as our students access internet resources. This year, we have an updated internet filter that has a parent component to it. You will be receiving an email from the filtering company with a subject line of: Welcome to Securly. This email get you started with access to not only see where your child is going on the internet, but will also allow you to have further controls at home for those students who take a school device home.

The image shows a screenshot of an email interface with a blue header bar containing the text "Welcome to SecurlyHome!". Below the header, the text "Here's what you can look forward to:" is followed by three items, each with a circular icon: a list icon for "A bird's eye view of your kid's online activity", a pause icon for "A pause button for school devices", and a bell icon for "Notifications of any disturbing activity detected by Securly affecting your child". Below these items is a light gray box containing two checkboxes. The first checkbox is checked and is followed by the text "I understand that I may see potentially sensitive online content accessed by my child.". The second checkbox is unchecked and is followed by the text "I agree to Securly's Terms of Service and Privacy Policy". Below the checkboxes is a large blue button with the text "Get Started". At the bottom of the light gray box is a link that says "No thanks, I don't want to see my child's activity". At the very bottom of the email is the SecurlyHome logo, which consists of a blue house icon with a smiley face inside, followed by the text "securlyhome".
